Go to Church Month Enters Second Week

The November "Go to Church Campaign" having gotten off to a fine start last Sunday, will begin its real test tomorrow, when all the cooperating churches will attempt to have an increase in attendance over last week's fine record.

It is hoped during this effort to have Christian people give at least one hour a week to the public worship of God, that communists and the churches in this vicinity will not let weather, or other unimportant matters interfere with their privilege and obligation to be present in God's house on the Lord's day.

George J. Hamlen has a poem entitled, "The Churchgoers," which reads like this:

Attend a church? Of course we do, like others in our set,
Except on days that seem to be too hot, or cold, or wet.
And then, of course, in summer, just to keep them up to par,
We take the kids, on Sundays, for a joy-ride in the car.
And sometimes, too, in spring and fall, I take a Sunday off
And let me to the Country Club to have a game of golf.
But all the other Sundays you will find us in our pew,
For we always go to church when we're nothing else to do.

If you have ever had the spirit suggested in this verse, now is the time to shake it off, and renew your loyalty, by regular attendance, to the one organization which provides you an opportunity for the public worship of God.

Mr. Marlon
Mr. Marlon, Nov. 12—On Tuesday, the Mr. Marlon Parent-Teacher Association held its November meeting in the church hall with an attendance of about 90, and with visitors from Ruby, Kingston, Malden and High Woods.

Thomas Penning of the faculty of Bard College spoke on the new trends in education and explained the new principles on which Bard College is being run. One of the main thoughts of Mr. Penning's talk was that it was good for a people to be able to create things with their own hands, and that the history of a race is written in its handwork, such as stone carvings, etc. To illustrate his point Mr. Penning showed slides of the statues and carvings of the Egyptians and clearly traced the decline of the powerful Egyptians through the centuries as it was written in the stone carvings.

The Parent-Teacher Association also held a Hobby Show in connection with this meeting. The school children had a special table displaying a variety of skillful projects and handwork.

The adult exhibits were varied and beautiful and included a wide range of subjects. There was rare, old china, an antique velvet quilt, an interesting display of United States stamps, whittling and carving, lovely plants and flowers, beautiful modern quilts and crocheted table cloths, knitting, cut work and embroidery, a reproduction of Mrs. Calvin Coolidge's famous bed spread, collections of figurines, scrapbooks and maps, glass blowing, a miniature steam engine, which was varied to run by blowing into a tube, and many other things. For a small community there was a wealth of original beauty and variety. Cake and cider was served at the close of the meeting.

On Wednesday evening the following members attended the Saugerties Parent-Teachers' meeting in the high school: Mrs. Joseph Young, Mrs. William Myer, Mrs. George Gillison, Mrs. Warren Myer and Mrs. Abram Bogert.

Winne Had No Counsel So Case Goes Over 3 Days

There was a brief session of county court this morning held for the purpose of giving Clark Winne of Quarryville an opportunity to appear with counsel and arrange for the trial of the assault action which is pending against him. Winne is charged with having assaulted an officer who went to the Winne place to arrest him on a disorderly conduct charge. Winne resisted and assaulted the officer.

He was to appear this morning with his counsel and decide when his case would be ready for trial but when he appeared in court he told Judge Traver that he had been unable to get counsel. Judge Augustus Shufeldt, whom Winne said would represent him, was unable to take the case and so notified the court.

Judge Traver informed Winne that since his case was a jail case it should be disposed of at this time as there will be no further term of county court until next February and unless the case is disposed of at this time Winne will not be able to go to trial until February. Assistant District Attorney Haver told the court that Winne had been given two weeks to secure counsel and had failed to do so and he suggested the court assign counsel. Judge Traver then assigned William A. Kelly and notified Winne the case would be taken up Tuesday at 10 o'clock.

Court recessed until Monday afternoon at 2 when the Otis case will come up and James C. Reilly and Robert Hutcherson will be sentenced.

"I do not wish to imply that I am against everything done by the Roosevelt administration or which Mr. Roosevelt seeks to do, but unquestionably we are opposed to many proposals—such as the reorganization of the Supreme Court."

Find Reasons For Jap Cooperation

good-will, confidence and mutually beneficial commercial relations.

"From the standpoint of the observance of the letter and spirit of treaties to which she voluntarily put her name, from the standpoint of her material self-interest, from the standpoint of world peace and the progress of international good will, it would seem there are compelling reasons why Japan should cooperate in our work."

"We hope Japan will still see its way clear to doing so."

The addresses by the delegation leaders included a plea from China's Dr. V. K. Wellington Koo for economic and financial pressure against Japan and aid to China "now that the door to conciliation and mediation has been slammed in your face."

He referred to Japan's refusal yesterday to enter the Brussels talks.

The round of speech-making brought an argument by Yvon Lebois, French foreign minister, for respect of international law as the only means of effecting permanent settlement of the Far Eastern question and a reference by Anthony Eden, British foreign secretary to a "growing tendency toward force" of certain countries.

Eden contrasted China's acceptance of treaty obligations with Japan's attitude which he said brought the conferring nations face to face with a very serious problem.

Eden said it was an international duty to uphold a system founded on observance of international treaties. This, he declared was the fundamental issue before the conference.

After nearly two hours discussion the conference adjourned until 4:30 p. m., when the text of a declaration drafted by the American, British and French delegations was to be distributed to the conferees.

Count Luigi Aldrovandi-Matocotti, apokokman for Italy—which has sided with Japan—spoke briefly at the morning session, asking what the conference proposed to do next.

Vladimir Potemkin, for Soviet Russia, stressed his country's desire for a peaceful settlement.

Eden declared it would be impossible for him to assent to the doctrine that the Far Eastern war was a matter for Japan and China alone.

"The mere recollection of recent events will show how unacceptable such an attitude must be to us," he said. "The losses of lives and property have not been confined to two nations."

"I take this occasion . . . to repeat that it is on the basis of respect for international law that his majesty's government will conduct its international policy. No other basis is acceptable to us. No other, we are convinced, will in the end achieve the purpose we must all have at heart—the preservation of world peace."

Public Hearing On Cat's Eyes for R. R. Crossings

The state public service commission will hold a public hearing at the city hall on Wednesday morning at 10:30 o'clock on the city's petition to install cat's eyes on the crossing gates of the railroad crossings in the city, or to afford additional precautions for the traveling public.

It has been argued by some motorists that if what are commonly called cat's eyes were placed on the crossing gates that it would lessen the possibility of a crossing accident. It cat's eyes are not installed the city is asking that some kind of a flashing signal be used to protect grade crossings in the city, not otherwise protected.

The three women were returning home from a party and had just stepped off the curb at Broadway and East Chester street when struck and knocked down. All three were bruised and shaken up and were attended by Dr. Lechner at the Kingston Hospital and later returned home.

Mr. Decker in reporting the accident said he was turning left on the green light when the woman suddenly appeared in front of his car.

Count Luigi Aldrovandi-Matocotti, apokokman for Italy—which has sided with Japan—spoke briefly at the morning session, asking what the conference proposed to do next.

Fashions and Household Hints For Women

Shirley Sets A Style For Little Girl's Hair

SHIRLEY'S NEW HAIRDRESS

By BETTY CLARKE
AP Feature Service Writer

There's something the hairdressers' convention overlooked—Shirley Temple.

Shirley has changed her style of hairdress for the first time since she became a national figure. No more tousled curls, for Shirley's almost nine.

Since this probably will affect mothers of America's eight-year-olds, it might be well to consider the subject.

Miss Agnes F. Schmitt of Lincoln, Neb., who specializes in coiffures for little girls, has quite a few ideas on that topic. Here are some of them:

Don't use tin curlers or tight pads on your child's hair. They interfere with that most important item in a young lady's regimen—sleep.

Don't cater to cowlicks. Study the shape of your daughter's face, the texture of her hair, her general appearance and adapt the cowlick.

If daughter has a slender face, experiment with wind-blown wisps over the cheeks. Part the hair low—and slant the part.

If the face is full try a part in the center—tying the hair back with two little bows.

If the youngster has a bit of natural wave near the scalp, add three or four curls near the ends of her hair.

Above everything, keep a small girl's hairdress simple. See that she washes her hair with a mild soap or takes a soapless shampoo. And be sure she brushes her hair often.

USE SILVER EVERY DAY

IT WILL NOT WEAR OUT.

What are you saving your silver for? You can't wear it out, your children can't wear it out, your grandchildren will inherit it all in good condition, and your great-grandchildren will prize it more than any of their possessions.

If you are holding out or delaying buying silver because it's hard to keep clean, you are displaying considerable ignorance about silver and its care.

Silver that is used every day does not require frequent cleaning. Why don't you use it every day? There should never be any best silver. Use all your silver all the time. Nothing gives so much elegance to a table. It is colorful and practical. Just the ordinary washing in soap and hot water that all dishes receive, keeps silver bright and clean, and every time that silver is washed or dried, it is being polished by hand. These countless washings and continuous use are what give to antique silver that patina, that mellow glow that we love and covet.

Start "antiquing" your own silver—by use. It lasts longer than glass, china, furniture and rugs, and is less perishable than any of the objects d'art one collects.

Children like nothing so much as a surprise and that is something mothers should keep in mind about children's eating. Especially if a child is indifferent about food.

It doesn't matter much just what the surprise is. It may be, for instance, the dish in which the morning cereal is served. The prepared cereal people recognized that when they started giving away cereal bowls that had pretty pictures in the bottom.

It may be the pitcher from which the cereal cream is poured. My own boy took a sudden fancy to his morning glass of milk simply because it was poured from a china cow pitcher.

Switch the Fruit

Try serving a different fruit or fruit juice each day for a period of two weeks—and don't tell your child beforehand what it's going to be. You can start with orange juice, and go down the line—pineapple, grape, grapefruit, cranberry, tomato, apricot or apple juice.

You can work through a list of cooked, dried or fresh fruits. Better yet, alternate fruits and juices.

In some cases prizes will do the trick. Special trips, a movie, small articles or little favors will do wonders in making a willing cereal eater of a belligerent one.

Every child should have a quart of milk a day. Part of it may be served in creamed soups, escalloped foods, custards and puddings—or cocoa or hot chocolate.

Every child also should eat a certain amount of bread. Try changing from graham, whole wheat, bran, corn, raisin or date bread—and spreading each with a jam, a jelly, a brown sugar and cinnamon mixtures, shaved maple sugar, honey or maple syrup.

Strategy in Molds

Placing foods in unusual molds also is good strategy. Baked mixtures, gelatin salads and cornstarch puddings will prove especially intriguing if they are molded—and then decorated with bits of colored vegetables, fruits or gum drops.

The between-meal snack is another important factor in the child's well-being. It should never take the place of a meal and should be restricted to such simple foods as fruit, graham crackers, dates, figs or raisins, a plain cookie or piece of gingerbread—and a glass of milk.

Meal surroundings and the atmosphere pervading the family dinner table are further points to consider.

Serving courses often is stimulating—since the child may be encouraged to wonder what comes next. Start with the least liked food and lead to a favorite dessert.

Dishing small quantities of food—rather than heaping the plate high the first time—will work in the case of the child who is indifferent to food.

If You Want To Steal The Show Here's How To Dress And Act

By ADELAIDE KERR
AP Feature Service Writer

New York—Do you want to know how to steal the show in any drawing room?

Let Vincente Minnelli, young theatrical producer who has coached scores of stage beauties in Hollywood and New York, tell you how.

Black, White and Red

First, the way to dress.

Red is a good color for scene stealing, he says. But a red hat, bag, or handkerchief will do you more good than a whole red outfit. Don't wear a red dress unless you think your rival's chausu are greater than yours—and then don't wear it often.

Black or white set a woman off to better advantage. Blue is any shade is sure-fire. Green is a hazard among strangers, for too many men dislike it.

If you want to appear fragile and appealing, wear a dress half a size too large.

Don't wear shoes too small. You can't get them small enough to change the appearance of your foot, they will only make you unhappy and ill at ease.

Wear something glittery—a sequins jacket or beaded belt. An audience or group is like a baby. Whatever flashes catches its eye.

Wear a becoming hat. If you want to attract a man.

Slowly, Gracefully

Now here are the Minnelli rules for that sweeping all before you entrance.

Walk into a room as if you owned it, with your head held proudly and high. That means an air of self-possession, but not of snobbishness.

Walk slowly and gracefully. If you don't know how learn by walking around a room and up and down stairs balancing a book on your head. Garbo and Dietrich did it, so you should be willing.

Pause an instant at the door get your bearings and then go directly to some spot. Never waver.

Be sure your hat, hair and make-up are perfect before you enter. Don't touch them after ward.

After you arrive look pleasant and natural and keep your hands as quiet as possible. Don't pose. If you have a rival in the room don't go to an opposite corner. Stand near her and steal her thunder. It will give you more satisfaction.

The Reserves

If she is at a snive and well dressed as you are and you feel the scene slipping from you here is some extra ammunition.

Stand perfectly still. In a moving, stamp of people nothing is so compelling as one quiet or speaks.

'Commuter Breakfast' Won't Keep You Fit

KNEE CIRCLING
This exercise will help your digestion. Bring both knees up to the right, swing them across under the chin and let them down to the left. Rest a second or two between circles.

By BETTY CLARKE
AP Feature Service Writer

Indigestion is a complaint of three out of five American business women.

Miss Catherine Van Rensselaer, director of physical education at the American Woman's Association in New York, who has to cope with hundreds of cases of it, says most indigestion is caused by carelessness.

It can be cured by correcting digestive and elimination habits and doing a certain amount of exercise.

"Commuter's breakfast is often the cause of the trouble," Miss Van Rensselaer says. "Breakfast should take at least twenty minutes. And dieting or not—I think it should be ample.

"Lunch should be light and eaten slowly. Dinner should be the most leisurely meal of all."

Miss Van Rensselaer suggests these exercises to strengthen the muscles that control digestion and elimination.

One is "trunk circling." Put your hands on your hips. Describe a half circle with the trunk, leaning as far as possible in each direction. Five times from right to left and five times from left to right will be enough.

Another is "knee circling." Lie on your back. Bring both knees up from the right and around to the left, letting the legs extend out and down as you complete the circle.

The third involves relaxing from the waist. Let the upper half of your body swing toward the floor thoroughly relaxed. Let your fingertips touch your toes—one, two, three, four times—and then return to a standing position.

WOMEN In The News

A Certain Amount Of Footwork Improves A Child's Brain Work

By LYDIA GRAY SHAW
(AP Feature Service Writer)

New York—Education from head to foot is getting attention from New York public school supervisors, who have discovered that ill-fitting shoes and weak arches have plenty to do with brain power.

Miss Carol Cotton, health education supervisor in the New York city schools, has inaugurated a course of foot improvement based on a survey begun in 1934 which showed an alarming proportion—45 per cent—of school children examined have weak feet. She found, too, that grades improve with foot corrections.

The Solution

She persuaded the board of education to take footprints of children in representative schools in the city system. The children stand on one foot on the foot printing instrument, in a ballet dancer attitude, and press the outline of their foot on a white piece of paper. This shows up all defects.

Then, what to do about it? Miss Cotton advises the pencil-grabbing exercise, which classes or individual pupils seize upon with enthusiasm. It is particularly good for weak arches, though a marble may be substituted for the pencil. The children rotate their ankles, maintaining a firm grip on the pencil at the same time.

About Shoes

Next, they toe the mark while Miss Cotton takes a look at their shoes. Round toes and broad heels are essential for growing youngsters, she says. And shoes should be half an inch longer than the foot to allow for rapid growth. No cast-off shoes, either. Wearing older brother's or sister's discarded is very likely to cause trouble.

Helps For Housewives

Use a flashlight for hunting things in dark closets. Lighted tapers or matches may prove disastrous.

Black shoe polish stains may be removed by rubbing them with warm water and soap. Rub brown stains with alcohol.

Boiled spinach, well drained and served with cheese sauce, creamed fish, meat, mushrooms or truffled dried beef, makes an appetizing and quickly-prepared food.

In sewing buttons back in place on upholstered furniture put the button on the loop end of a wire hairpin. Push the opposite end of the hairpin through the fabric and catch the button in place with a heavy needle and strong thread. Remove the hairpin and finish sewing on the button.

To freshen a bouquet place several cubes of ice in the bowl. That will do the trick without making it necessary to move or rearrange the flowers.

As soon as you are through using paint brushes soak them in gasoline or turpentine for an hour. Then wipe them with a soft cloth and wash them well in warm water and soap suds. Wipe each one dry and wrap it in a cloth or paper.

Add a little liquid—gravy, sauce, water or milk—to leftover vegetables and meat to be reheated. Then cover them tightly and allow them to heat at a low temperature for ten minutes. Overcooking them will leave them dry and tasteless.

Before tinting or dyeing articles be sure to have them cleaned and free of any spots or stains. Otherwise the stains are likely to show when the articles have been dyed.

Remove all old varnish from furniture before trying to re-varnish it. A cup of sal soda to two quarts of hot water will help. Scrub each piece with a stiff brush. Wear rubber gloves to protect your hands.

To remove cream stains from garments or linens rub the stained area with cold water and soap and then "inset" it thoroughly in cold water.

Why Not Make Yourself A Needlepoint Heirloom?

A SEAT WITHIN REACH
Needlepoint is not an impossibility nowadays. Patterns, from the simple to the intricate, are readily available.

By MARY DAVIS GULLIES
Prepared by McCall's Magazine for The Freeman

The sure way to give a room a personality of its own is to have an heirloom in it—something that looks as if the room has grown around it. And the nicest kind of heirloom is one you make yourself.

Of course, we'd like to have needlepoint, but... There needn't be any "but" these days, or any regret at not being able to afford a museum piece. There are patterns ready to hand, from the simple to the intricate, and yarns in every color you can imagine.

The old favorite flower and fruit patterns are here, and the Queen Anne garlands, small Colonial sprays, gorgeous Victorian bouquets and the modern flowers—that never were. In colors, you can choose from bright, rich hues on deep backgrounds to subtle, faded tones on gray or lemon grounds.

Patterns of scenery, clipper ships, Chinese pagodas, busy fishermen, modern tropical jungles, George Washington on the cherry tree and a long-lined deer leaping through the forest—these are only a few of the fascinating designs.

If your house has a name—well, why not your own designs?

Some canvas pieces come stamped in full colors. Some have the difficult petal-point work done and only the solid work back to do. For simpler things, there's a little needlepoint doormat, in checkerboard or tiger lily design. Hearth-rugs, chair seats, tops of bridge or coffee tables, fire screens or over-mantel pictures—there's no limit to needlepoint versatility.

Etiquette

Car Stylist Streamlines Manners For Motorists

By JOAN DURHAM
AP Feature Service Writer

Our automobile manners are as out of date as the model T.

It took a women industrial designer to tell us so.

Miss Helen Dryden, who has planned the interior of one of the most attractive cars in the new auto shows, has injected some common sense into the seating arrangement.

It's silly, she says, for the woman to snuggle into the right-hand corner of the rear seat in an automobile—as the old regime of motorists would have us do.

Watch The Traffic

When that rule is followed the man either has to walk to the other side of the car to get in and run the risk of being mowed down by traffic or he has to climb over the woman to get to his seat at her left. That means crumpling her evening gown or trampling on her new slippers.

There's still another point. The man should help the woman in getting out. Therefore he should be able to get out first—which he can do nicely if he sits nearest the curb.

If the man is driving the car himself he should help the woman into her seat and then walk around the car and get into the driver's seat.

That Rumble Seat

When a group enters a taxi or a chauffeur-driven car this is the correct order and seating. The woman guest goes first—and sits on the left of the rear seat.

The hostess is next—and sits in the middle. The man guest is third—and the right-hand fold-down seat.

The host is last—and sits on the right-hand fold-down seat.

How about getting into a rumble seat?

That's easy: The woman steps onto the lower foot rest, with her left foot, steps to the second foot rest with her right foot and then into the rumble seat, trying not to dig her French heels into the leather. She moves to the left side of the seat so the man can get in as she did and will be able to get out first, to help her.

"It's like mounting a horse,"

OFFICE CAT

The Moss Feature Syndicate, Greensboro, N. C.

A man who accommodatingly left his keys in his car parked on the street was awakened early in the morning and saw a man trying to start the car. The man rushed to the door in his pajamas and yelled without frightening the thief. Then he rushed back to get his pants and returned in time to see his car disappearing far down the street. The incident is mainly important because it shows what men retain their modesty and place dignity and decency ahead of property rights and riches.

Druggist (to motorist who had been carried into his store after an accident)—Yes, sir, you had a very bad smash, but I managed to bring you too.

Motorist—I don't remember. Do you mind bringing me two more?

There should be some kind of an institution for the kind that drives down the street at a high rate of speed and then jams on the brakes and slides the wheels 30 feet.

The luxurious car stopped in front of the seaside hotel, and the old man explained that he had been advised by his doctor to stay at a place where the south wind blew continuously.

Old Man—Does the south wind blow here?

Hotel Keeper—Always!

The old man held a moistened finger in the air.

Old Man—But that wind is coming from the north.

Hotel Keeper—You're right, sir. It's on its way back.

Modern trailers just about have all the comforts of a modern home, even to the mortgage.

Fair and Cooler

"I'll let you off with a fine today," said the judge, with a gentle grin.

"So you go your way in peace, my friend, commit no further sin."

The law of course, must be obeyed, and if perchance you fall, when next you meet this court again I'll send you straight to jail."

"It's fine today," the prisoner said to the stern old judge and ruler.

"But when I drive my car again I fear it may be cooler."

—Harry Brockway.

"Dear Clara," wrote the young man, "pardon me, but I'm getting so forgetful. I proposed to you last night, but really forgot whether you said yes or no."

"Dear Will," she replied by note, "so glad to hear from you. I knew that I had said no to somebody last night, but had forgotten who it was."

The meanest dog in our town wags his tail when he begs for food and then snaps at your heels when his belly is full.

Mother—Junior, will you go down to the cellar and split some kindling?

Junior—Wait until Dad comes. I heard him tell Mr. Smith last night that he bought twenty-five dollars worth of chips.

Read it or not—Andrew Jackson's wife taught him to read after they were married.

Parents say a boy is more trouble, but a local man says you never hear them speak of getting a son "married off."

A man was fumbling at his key hole in the small hours of the morning. A policeman saw the difficulty and came to the rescue: Policeman—Can I help you find the key hole, sir?

Drunk—Thash all right, old man, you jush hold the house shill and I can manage.

A gold fish is a species of carp. But since nobody ever thinks of trying to eat him, it doesn't count against him.

Broadway: "The Life of Emile Zola." Considered by many critics to be the most brilliantly conceived historical film ever screened, "The Life of Emile Zola" comes to the Broadway as a sweeping document that deals with a critical period in French history. The man Zola, a rebel against convention and injustice, stirred the embers of class prejudice to a white heat when he openly exposed the infamous Dreyfus case in one of the most stirring appeals ever written. His novel "Nana" had brought him fame as a reformer and author and Paul Muni, in the title role, makes his character live and breathe through the turmoil of a troubled period in history. Mr. Muni's work is a tribute to his genius and it is by far the best performance he has ever given the screen. Others in a huge cast include Joseph Schildkraut, Gale Sondergaard, Erin O'Brien-Moore, Louis Calhern, Gloria Holden, Donald Crisp and Henry O'Neill. Directed by William Dieterle and presented by Warner Brothers. A don't miss film masterpiece.

Kingston: "Lancer Spy." The glory and danger of modern espionage is painted in colors of bravery and fear in the main attraction at the Kingston. The show describes the spy system, its pitfalls and its moments of accomplishment. As usual, this movie puts a woman in the thick of things and the play is a reckless melodrama that grows more and more noble as the scenes progress. A fine cast includes George Sanders, Joseph Schildkraut, Lionel Atwill and Virginia Field. Gregory Ratoff directed this 20th Century-Fox presentation.

Orpheum: "The Last Train from Madrid" and "Roaring Timber." Vaguely using the Spanish civil war as a background, "The Last Train from Madrid" is the picture story of four people who try to escape across the Spanish border. The show is a love story more than a study in warfare and war.

LeRoy: "The Last Train from Madrid" and "Roaring Timber." Vaguely using the Spanish civil war as a background, "The Last Train from Madrid" is the picture story of four people who try to escape across the Spanish border. The show is a love story more than a study in warfare and war.

HOLLYWOOD SIGHTS AND SOUNDS

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—George Lynn is an actor and playwright, but what makes him unusual is the fact that he's the town's only authority on life under the "O." Some years back a real estate developer in the Hollywood hills erected a huge sign, spelling out Hollywoodland, visible all over the movie city.

For three weeks, George Lynn made his home under the "O." He isn't superstitious, or he doesn't know, or he'd have chosen the "double-O."

Lived Out Of A Kit

College graduate and stunt pilot, George was ready to leave for China and aviation exploits there when someone decamped with all his funds. That was five years ago. He had $2 in his pocket and nothing to do—except go to dinner with friends in Hollywoodland. They didn't invite him to spend the night, and on the way down the hill he saw the sign. The "O" looked pleasant. He camped.

"It wasn't bad living," he said on the "Charlie Chan" set the other day. "I'd go down to gas stations to wash up and shave—I still had a small kit—and you can buy bushels of raw vegetables for a quarter. I ate them."

Tragedy Under The 'O'

After a bit of this he made his way home to Cumberland, Md.—he hadn't wanted to bother the folks—and made a fresh start. He had sold stuff to magazines, and had appeared in about 30 plays at the Pasadena playhouse before Hollywood noticed him. Since then he's done seven pictures—usually getting killed off before the end.

"Sort of a gruesome career," he said, "but I like character stuff—and characters get killed, at least when I play them."

About two years after George made his home under the "O" a pretty young actress found the same Hollywoodland sign the answer to her problems. She leaped off the top of one of the letters to her death. A movie would have had George there at the time, to save her life. . . . But the scenario didn't read that way.

Stay-At-Homes

The Dick Powells believe in planned domesticity. They plan as much as a month ahead of what they will do. The schedule includes staying home at least three nights of each week, working or not. When both Dick and Joan Bondell work, they go out socially only once a week. When one works, they compromise on two nights out and five by the fire. They invite dinner guests not more than two nights each week. They allow themselves one very late engagement—at home or elsewhere—each month, and at least four mornings a month when they can sleep as late as they please.

The schedule, says Joan, is for health and happiness.

"If we don't plan ahead like this we find ourselves going out more and more often, having more and more parties at our house and getting more and more tired out."

JUNIOR H-Y HOLDS 1ST PARTY OF SEASON.

Friday evening the Junior H-Y entertained at its first party of the season in the Boys' Division of the Y. M. C. A. The Sophomore Girls' Club of the Y. W. C. A. were the guests. Several games, dancing and a skit by the girls furnished enjoyable entertainment during the evening. The main interest seemed to be in billiards and ping pong. Refreshments were served just before this party came to a close about 10:30 o'clock.

The committee in charge of the party was headed by Roy Mayone, assisted by Edgar Allen, Lewis Sapp and Theodora Wood. Miss Herdman, Girls' Reserve secretary of the Y. W., and Ella J. Bookwalter, boys' work secretary of the Y. M., acted as the chaperons.

It is the hope of the Y staff that the Boys' Department will be used more for like affairs during the coming winter. Because of the change in the Boys' Club schedule, the Boys' Division is now clear of all young boys in the evening and is being reserved especially for the older boys from the high school.

AIR PROGRESS PUTS
END TO FRONTIERSAviation Service Shows
Huge Development.

Montreal, Que.—Canadian transport planes have set new records for amounts of express-freight and mail carried, according to statistics compiled from the results of exhaustive inquiry among many companies engaged in diverse forms of commercial air operation throughout the country.

Freight carriage in 1936 increased by 43 per cent over the 1935 aggregate to approximately 25,250,000 pounds—11,272 tons—while airmail reached a new high level of 1,153,812 pounds. Forty-three freight carriers returned figures included in the year's aggregate. The eight largest operators among them accounted for 19,500,000 pounds.

Commercial aviation in Canada provides perhaps the world's best example of the benefits conferred on mankind by the airplane. The dominion's immense territory and lack of adequate ground communications make it ideal for the proper development of civil flying enterprise, and Canadian air transport companies have done much to make possible the exploitation of areas that are inaccessible except by air, thereby adding greatly to the national wealth.

Mining Plant Transported.

Far the larger part of the aerial freighting is associated with mining. Typical of the kind of contract that mining brings to the air transport concern was that fulfilled by Wings, Ltd. It called for transportation of an entire mining plant a distance of 145 miles, from a terminal 325 miles east of Lake Winnipeg to a new mining site just over the Ontario boundary. The total weight of cargo involved was more than 600,000 pounds, and included a mine hoist, a mine cage, sinking buckets, rock drills and steel, steel rail, eight ore cars, 60,000 pounds of dynamite, 70 workmen and their belongings and foodstuffs weighing more than 60,000 pounds.

Special air bases, with radio stations, were established at both ends of the run. Some of the machinery to be moved raised difficult problems because of its great weight and bulkiness. The ore compressors weighed, when assembled, 14,000 pounds, and the hoist 4,900 pounds. The sub-base of the compressor was 15 feet long. It was cut in two and provision made for reassembly at the new site. Each piece weighed half a ton. Two tractors weighed respectively 6,250 and 5,700 pounds. They were taken apart, the heaviest single pieces carried in the planes being the motors, which weighed 1,800 and 1,230 pounds. The contract was completed within scheduled time.

Used to Ship Fish.

An interesting form of air freighting enterprise which is peculiar to Canada is the transport of fish from lakes inaccessible by surface vehicles. One company alone reports the carriage of more than 1,000,000 pounds of fish during the last winter.

During the last seven years air freighting in Canada has grown from a few isolated operations to become an industry engaging more than 40 operating concerns, serving vast regions in what is commonly called the "Northland," where other forms of transport are for the most part impracticable and are always more expensive.

Mining and air freighting have developed together in recent years, while the application of air services to problems of everyday transport and communications is bringing profound changes to the social and economic life of "frontier" areas from Akavik on the extreme western Arctic coast of Canada to the little Magdalen islands in the Gulf of St. Lawrence.

Surgeon Offers Drinking

Rules for Auto Drivers

London, England.—Rules about drinking for motorists have been compiled by Dr. Alexander Balde, divisional surgeon of the metropolitan police.

Among "refreshment rules of the road" suggested by Dr. Balde are: On any occasion on which the drinking of alcohol is a contemplated ritual leave the car at home.

Avoid alcohol for at least two hours before driving. This period is strictly applicable only to the most modest and conventional amounts.

Especially avoid alcohol on long journeys.

Avoid alcohol on any journey undertaken alone.

Any alcohol consumed should be taken only with meals.

Do not select an alcoholic beverage merely to relieve thirst.

A routine practice of sipping cold water at intervals on a journey often will counteract fatigue and often remove the desire for alcohol.

Basketball Schedule For Kingston High School FiveMahoney May Get
A.A.U. Post Again

Boston, Nov. 13 (AP)—Defeated by a vast Fusion majority in his recent campaign to become mayor of New York, Jeremiah T. Mahoney may be re-elected president of the National Amateur Athletic Union without campaigning at all by another Fusion majority that practically amounts to popular acclamation.

The head of amateur sports' ruling organization already has announced he is not a candidate for a second term. But the delegates of the A. A. U.'s forty-ninth annual convention, which opened a busy three-day program today, are paying that announcement little heed.

Those who helped elect him a year ago and many of those who then were fighting him are hand-in-hand in the mushrooming motion to keep the New York attorney in office. There aren't, in fact, even any prominent candidates to run against him.

Mahoney also is head of the executive and foreign relations committee, which will recommend, when the delegates gather in general assembly tomorrow, the stand to be taken on the National Collegiate Athletic Association's campaign for control of American Olympic committees on track and field, swimming, rowing and wrestling.

That control now rests with the A. A. U. The question before the house is whether to retain it, relinquish it or seek a compromise arrangement that will satisfy both parties.

When the delegates have disposed of the award of national championships, approved or disapproved 136 records, passed on 55 revisions in the A. A. U. code and finally have finished up on Monday with the election of officers, "Little Man, You've Had a Busy Day" will be more of a slogan than a song title.

Tickets Scarce for
Notre Dame-Army

New York, Nov. 13 (AP)—Little do the young men of West Point and Notre Dame, as they snuck each other around at Yankee Stadium today, realize what a storm they have aroused in the breast of many an honest taxpayer.

The man who does know about it, though, is Captain F. A. March, 3rd, public relations officer at the Point.

Thousands of honest taxpayers, it seems, are convinced they have a constitutional right to watch the Army eleven play both Notre Dame and the Navy. March, at the moment, is the dejected villain who's holding out on the common people. He handles half the tickets.

"We have only 40,000 tickets to begin with," Captain March explained. "Notre Dame disposes of the other 40,000. Then, when we have taken care of some 30,000 applications from members of the Army Association, there are only 10,000 left for the general public."

Fair Test for Hockey Teams

(By The Associated Press)

A pair of doubleheaders, rather rare occurrences the way hockey schedules are arranged but a fair test of strength between the teams involved, top off a six-game week-end slate in the National Hockey League.

The divisional leaders of last season, the Detroit Red Wings and Montreal Canadiens, hook up at Montreal tonight and at the tomorrow. The clubs that top the current standings, the Toronto Maple Leafs and Chicago Black Hawks, play a similar bill at Toronto and Chicago.

The "home openings" of the Boston Bruins and New York Americans completed the schedule Sunday night with the New York Rangers and Montreal Maroons, respectively, providing the opposition.

Two Big Bowling
Matches Tonight

Two major bowling matches are scheduled for Kingston tonight.

At Colonial alleys, the Crystal Beauty Shoppe Keglers oppose the Fisher Body team of Tarrytown at 8 o'clock.

At Emerick's alleys, the Jones Dairyemen take on the Schenectady All Stars at 8 o'clock.

Both of these attractions are expected to draw large turnouts of bowling fans, to see their Kingston favorites against some of the best talent from up and down the Hudson.

The 1864 Dollar

One of the deepest mysteries in the history of our coinage is that which surrounds the 1864 silver dollar. According to old and somewhat misleading records, 19,570 coins were struck, but only about 20 specimens are known. Various theories have been advanced to explain this discrepancy and it has been definitely established, according to the Detroit Coin club, that at least 17 of the known specimens were coined after 1868 for numismatic purposes.

The Kingston High School basketball schedule, listing seventeen games, nine at home has been released by Head Coach G. Warren Kias. The municipal auditorium will again be used for the 1937-38 campaign at home.

Jackets Expect
Tough Struggle
In Troy Sunday

Last night the Yellow Jackets held an intensive drill under the arc lights at the Fair Grounds in preparation for their battle at Troy with the Bearcats, Sunday.

This, their first out of town game of the season, is expected to be a tough skirmish for the Waaps.

Coach Mac Tiano said that his band of gridders seem to be in good physical shape and that Tiger Tomshaw has recovered from his head injury and will play Sunday.

After devoting a lot of time to passing in last night's workout, Tiano put the Stingers through a prolonged signal drill. "We want to go to Troy ready for the hardest battle of the season," he said.

The Yellow Jackets will leave from Nick Kaslisch at 11 o'clock sharp Sunday morning.

Wilbur Teams at
Chichester Hall

Tonight the Wilbur Big Five will play Charley Zimmerman's Slack Bears at Chichester, traveling to the mountain town by bus. It will leave Wilbur at 7 o'clock and the central post office at 7:15.

Manager Moe Lynch hopes there will be a crowd of Wilbur and Kingston fans on the bus, to root for his club against the powerful Bears. In the Wilbur lineup will be Buddy Zoller, Harry Gelsler, Joe Spitzer, Don Boyce, Bert Streeter, West Hyatt and Joe and Larry Wenzel.

Starting time of the game is 9 o'clock. The Wilbur girls will play in the preliminary.

St. Mary-le-Bow, London,
Gets Title From Arches

Bow church or St. Mary-le-Bow in Cheapside, London, derives its name from the stone arches, "bows," of its Norman crypt, built about 1090. The church was rebuilt by Sir Christopher Wren about 1680. The crypt probably is a relic of the church built in Norman times and is given in Baedeker as the oldest surviving ecclesiastical structure in the city of London.

The church has long had one of the most celebrated bell-peals. John Dun, mercer, in 1472, gave two tenements to maintain the ringing of Bow bell every night at nine o'clock, to direct travelers on the road to town; and in 1520 William Copland gave a bigger bell for the purpose of "sounding a retreat from work."

The Bow bells are twelve in number, states a writer in the Detroit News, eight of which were recast in Whitechapel in 1762. According to legend, it was the sound of Bow bells which inspired the poor boy, Richard Whittington, in the fourteenth century, to return to London and become its famous lord mayor.

In the Middle Ages the term "cockney" was applied to a pampered child, a person petted and made effeminate by over indulgence. Later it was applied to city dwellers by country folk who scorned the soft habits of the town-bred. As in English eyes London was "the city," by 1600 the term cockney had become applicable solely to Londoners, and particularly those born within the sound of Bow bells, in the heart of London.

As it would be difficult for anyone to claim birth in that region of city offices and warehouses, a cockney is anyone possessed of the London peculiarities of speech, etc.

Pampas Puncher

It is a relief that no one has referred to Alberto Lovell as another Luis Angel Firpo, despite the fact that the latest Argentine heavyweight hauls from the same town on the Pampas.

Lovell defeated Luigi Rovati of Italy in the final heavyweight bout in the 1932 Olympic games. He became a national hero in the Argentine. Little was heard of him in the U. S. until recently, when he popped up in California seeking more glory and some of our gold.

In his second professional U. S. fight, Lovell was tossed against Andre Lenglet. The towering Frenchman was riding high. Shortly after the opening round Lovell was on the floor. Three times in the first round he was sent to the canvas by the Frenchman's punches. But each time Lovell managed to climb back. Then he went on to pound out a decision.

Maxie Rosenbloom dropped his work at the studio long enough to test the South American and suffered a fine goin-over for his pains. Not many of the big boys are outsmarting the caddy. Lovell, even at this late stage of his career, but that is exactly what Lovell did. Later came Red Burman, Jack Dempsey's heavyweight hope. Burman connected with one of his rights and again Lovell rested on the floor. This time, as on previous occasions, he got up—to punch out a well-deserved decision over the Baltimore red-head.

Hank Hapkinson, 150-lb. Stumps, and Moose Irwin bowed to Lovell to give him a string of six straight.

The lad from South America showed that he was long on courage when he won the Olympic title. He faced Rovati with one bad hand. He can be hit, but keeping him on the floor is another proposition. The way he has climbed back to his feet to outscore his opponents indicates he should give more of our big boys a busy time of it.

Highland High,
Kingston Today

Kingston High School football team and the eleven from Highland High were scheduled to meet this afternoon at the Kingston Fair Grounds in a free lance contest. Having dropped decisions to Middletown and Port Jervis, the gridders of Coach G. Warren Kias are out of the DUSO running, but hope that they'll show power enough against Highland to stabilize themselves for their duel with Newburgh Thanksgiving Day.

Buffalo, N. Y.—Danno O'Mahoney, 231, Ireland, drew with Marve Westenberg, 221, Tacoma, Wash., (one fall each).

Severino, Bileski Victors,
Emerson Loses at Auditorium

Silver Palace League

Emerson, Nov. 13 (AP)—Mario Severino evened the score with Frankie Parshia before a packed house at the municipal auditorium, Friday night, winning by a shade over the rugged little New Yorker in the main bout on the card sponsored by the Mayor's Industrial Committee.

Just as he said he would, Severino opened up a strong attack slashing away at Parshia for the first two rounds, which he won by a fair margin. The Schenectady boy realized that it was the New Yorker's early flash that won for him three weeks ago.

In the third round, the metropolitan southpaw, shifted his attack to the midsection, and hammered Severino incessantly. He crashed hard bruising lefts to Mario's midriff, but the little gamster kept right on fighting back.

Parshia kept right on in the fourth round and won this frame along with the third. It looked like another defeat for Severino, but Chie Ivanelli, his handler, sent him out to keep slugfests in the fifth. Mario bounced several hard rights on Parshia's jaw in the closing inning, and looked strong at the finish, which influenced the judges in his favor.

Johnny Bileski, 180 pounder from Scotia, got the nod over Johnny Sheppard, 181, New York. In a rough tough battle that would have been the colored pugilist's scrap if he hadn't resorted to what the judges termed "unconformable tactics."

Bileski took plenty of punishment in the first, second and fifth rounds, as Sheppard from his crouched position shot punches, packed with plenty of dynamite, to the Scotia boxer's solar plexus and chin.

In the second round, Sheppard rocked Bileski with a terrific right, but failed to press Johnny for a key. The upstart concentrated on a counter attack in the third, and rocked the negro with several rights to the jaw, but could not finish him.

Sheppard survived and piled up a lead in the next two heats, but lost the decision because of some rough stuff, a bit of wrestling and clowning that went against him.

Emerson Loses

Manuel Rosa, 135 pound New York negro, with an educated left, kept it planted in Buddy Emerson's face during their five rounds. The St. Remy favorite had trouble with his man in all but the fourth round during which the scrapping was about even. Rosa, substituting for Billy White, was equal to his hard punching rival in the battling at close quarters, too, and won by a wide margin.

Other Results.

Reneo Sassone, 140, Newark, outpointed Danny Williams, 156, Hudson, in opening five rounds. Eddie Jones, 179, New York, negro, won decision over Jerry "Stonewall" Jackson, 184, this city, in 2 rounds.

Roy Starks, 145, Newburgh, won a technical knockout over Mike Gallo, 144, Hudson, in second round.

Pete Caprotti, 137, Kingston, made it two straight over Billy Lender, 139, Newburgh, in the curtain raiser.

Emmett Ryan, of Albany, was the referee. The judges were John Flannery and R. B. Blakelee, with Morton Finch, timer, and Sam Riber, announcer.

'Y Mercantile League

Nov. 13 (AP)—A three-way tie for first place loomed today in the world's pocket billiard championship as the round-robin tournament entered its second last day.

Everything depends on Willie Mosconi, of Philadelphia, who lost last night to Erwin Kiedolph, of Cleveland, 125 to 121 in 19 innings, after leading by 117 to 80 as late as the 47th inning.

Mosconi meets Irving Crane of the 25-year-old Livonia, N. Y., youth who has bounded to the top of the heap with six straight victories after losing to George Kelly, of Philadelphia, on October 28.

If Mosconi beats Crane, either Ralph Greenleaf, of New York, the defending champion, and Rudolph will join them in a triple deadlock for first. Greenleaf and Rudolph meet tonight after the Mosconi-Crane match.

Jimmy Caras, of Wilmington, Del., assured himself of at least fifth place by beating Andrew Pond, of Philadelphia, 125 to 34 in 20 innings in last night's other match.

Philadelphia—Irish Eddie Dolan, 142 1/2, Waterbury, Conn., outpointed Eli Wesley, 141 1/2, Philadelphia, (10).

Ex-Postmaster Gets Six Months

New York, Nov. 12 (Special).—Herbert O'Hara, former postmaster at Haines Falls, pleaded guilty to embezzling federal funds while in the post office and received a sentence of six months in United States District Court here today. Judge John C. Knox ordered the sentence served in Federal Detention Headquarters here.

O'Hara was indicted after an accounting showed shortages in the Haines Falls branch of $832. Most of the deficit represented money orders drawn by O'Hara without the formality of first turning in the equivalent in cash to the government.

Most Valuable Oyster Banks

Out of Chesapeake bay are pulled 80 varieties of sea food. Her oyster banks, the world's most valuable, supply the country with half its oysters yearly, says the Washington Post. It's the biggest inlet on the East coast—200 miles long, 20 miles average width. Because of its many rivers and streams the bay won for colonial Maryland the title "American Venice." All traffic was by boat. Francis Scott Key wrote "The Star-Spangled Banner" aboard a ship in the bay while the British were bombing Fort M'Henry.

Rail-Saving Device

In the early days of railroads the cost of the rails was so high that it was generally considered impracticable to ever cover a country with much more than a few important lines. No one in those days could foresee the production of cheap steel, and that machines would be built capable of economizing in rails by lifting them in from behind and laying them down again in front, while continuing to roll over them.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

New York, Nov. 12 (AP)—A quiet last-minute rally in the major stocks helped to bolster leading stocks in today's market and early declines of fractions to a point or more in many cases were cancelled or replaced with advances at the close. At the same time there was a wide assortment of losers.

Trade news was spotty, but little attention was paid to it. Speculative forces were inclined to go easy pending opening of Congress Monday and the reading of the President's speech.

Steels were sustained by an estimated upturn in mill operations next week at Pittsburgh, the first in some time. Motors were indifferent, reflecting further doubts regarding the consumer appetite in addition to fears of new labor controversies.

Transfers were around 400,000 shares, the lowest turnover in about two months. U. S. government bonds did better while corporate issues held to a narrow range. Commodities lacked climbing power.

Stocks under water the greater part of the day included Chrysler, Hudson Motors, General Motors, Mack Trucks, U. S. Rubber, Goodrich, Montgomery Ward, Sears, Roebuck, J. I. Case, International Harvester, Boeing, Douglas Aircraft, Western Union, Consolidated Edison, North American, Kennecott, American Smelting, Westinghouse, American Can, General Electric, Phillips Petroleum, Texas Corp., Santa Fe, Wheeling Steel, Philip Morris, Chesapeake Corp., Columbian Carbon, Loew's and Alhambra. Some of these came back at the finish.

Stocks Closed Irregular Friday

After showing strength in the early part of the day, stocks closed irregular yesterday, the industrial averages being up nearly a point, but rails and utilities showing small drops for the day.

On the Dow-Jones averages industrial closed with a gain for the day of 0.93 point; rails were off 0.06 point and utilities 0.29 point. What futures were up more than four cents at Chicago and the limit, five cents, in other markets on reports that there had been heavy damage to the Argentine crop by frost, reports at one time putting the damage at 75,000,000 bushels. Cotton closed nine to 11 points higher.

Brazilian bonds sold down as much as ten points due to the recent political changes in that country. Even high-grade South American bonds were affected to some extent. Domestic bonds were firm, government issues quiet.

Of importance, the utility field was the announcement that there would be a conference next week between the President and the public utility leaders.

The President said that he assumed that property valuation would be one of the topics discussed. The President in his press conference statement Tuesday advocated a common law theory of valuation. Comment is made that by this he meant the "prudent investor" theory, there should be, from present indications, little difficulty in ultimately reaching a basis for mutual accord on this question.

The President yesterday expressed hope that there would be legislation at the special session of Congress to facilitate efforts to spur the building industry. Two problems are seen—need of new capital (presumably private capital) and methods of lowering costs.

Comment was made that hourly labor costs in some of the building trades are very high. The President said that consideration had been given to the idea of an annual wage for construction workers rather than the present high per-day rates. Under the present system individual projects suffer.

Barron's business index for the week ended November 6 declined 2.9 points, to 73.1 per cent of normal, lowest since March, 1935. Anaconda copper reported net of $29,950,161, or $2.11 a share for nine months ended September 30; compares with $1.15 a share in 1936 period. Hudson Motors had third quarter loss of $895,097 compared with $131,061 year ago. Earnings of Kansas City Lower & Light for 12 months ended September 30, equal to $8.22 a share, were about the same as in the preceding year.

The outlook for mail orders and farm equipment houses continues good although in some instances percentage gains are seen flattening out.

Magma Copper declared a year-end dividend of $1.25. El Paso Natural Gas voted a special of 20 cents and a quarterly of 50 cents.

Jesse H. Jones, chairman of the RCP, forecast a revision of the surplus profits tax as of January 1, believes changes will have a good psychological effect on business and that there will be a marked improvement in business by spring.

Secretary Wallace has taken steps toward limitation of speculative transactions in grain futures. A public hearing will be held in Chicago December 1.

UAW President Martin claimed that union now has enough members in the Ford organization "to do business with." Says that the union is stronger in the Ford plant than it was in the General Motors plant prior to the strikes last winter.

Hudson closed its factory for the third time in 11 days when a labor controversy arose in the body division; question whether the plant will reopen Monday.

These Men Will Play Leading Roles In The Special Session Of Congress

(By The AP Feature Service)
Washington. — When President Roosevelt called congress for the special session, he marked off the legislation he wanted:

- (1) A streamlined federal administration.
- (2) Bigger pay envelopes for low-wage workers.
- (3) More dollars and crop control for farmers.
- (4) A blueprint for the nation's natural resources.

Certain it is that big guns of the house and senate will boom for and against these measures. In numerous addresses, both from his fireside and the platform, the President has given the key to administration desires on each group of hoped-for legislation.

These desires have found both supporters and antagonists. Among those certain to be heard from as the session gets down to the business in hand are the men pictured here.

In addition, almost as likely to be in the limelight are Senators William E. Borah and Carter Glass. If the question of United States neutrality comes up, Senator Borah undoubtedly will have much to say. While Senator Glass's recent long and serious illness may cause him to sit by most of the time, any matters concerning state's rights and centralization of government, for which he long has battled, are sure to elicit some oratorical shots from the caustic Virginian.

In The House . . . A Trio of New Dealers

John Joseph G. Connor

If the administration had such a thing as a single voice to speak for it in the House of Representatives, this Harvard-trained son of Tammany Hall would be that voice.

He heads the rules committee, that all powerful star chamber for legislation.

O'Connor is a close-knit, heavily built Irish American, born in Massachusetts, but brought up in New York city. He is the man who made a rebellious house give President Roosevelt a blank relief check of four billion, eight hundred million dollars three years ago. He also threatened to kick Father Coughlin down Pennsylvania avenue, but apologized.

Sam Rayburn

Genial Sam is the Houdini who swings administration bills through the House in full public view. That means the Texas knows the laws of gravity and strategy at close quarters.

The conservative Rayburn is 55, takes long walks through Washington streets, pals with Vice President Garner and Banker Jesse Jones from Houston. He is a veteran of the New Dealer, having shored through the house the utility holding company bill, rural electrification, and stock exchange regulation.

Garner sent Smiling Sam to Chicago in 1932 to throw the Democratic national convention to Roosevelt.

Marvin Jones

This drawing Texan talks in the plain Lincoln pattern. He is medium-sized, 51, and hails from a Texas district that raises three basic crops, wheat, cattle and cotton.

He has mastered practical agriculture on his own farm and the statistical variety as well, probably accounting for his chairmanship of the House Agriculture committee.

Agricultural economies, in fact, come easier for him than drawing room literature. Jones backed the old AAA, and when the administration offers its new farm bill, Marvin Jones's "X" will be on every page of it, or the American public will know the reason why.

In The Senate . . . Help And Headaches For F. D. R.

Arthur H. Vandenberg

"I'm not an isolationist—but I most certainly am an insulator," booms the Republican party's outstanding voice in the senate, constantly thundering against administration's foreign policy.

"When congress orders neutrality, it's the President's sworn duty to enforce it," argues the Republican presidential possibility. He refers to the recently enacted law that directs the President to use embargo and keep Americans out of dangerous war spots.

Vandenberg descends from New York Dutch stock like the President. He ran a $25-a-week reporter job in Michigan into a senate seat.

Burton K. Wheeler

Lofty-browed, palm-pounding "Burr" Wheeler was the chosen leader of the little senate band that frazzled the President's court reform plan.

If the court scheme appears on the horizon, Wheeler's the man to watch. If it doesn't, his sharp-shooting will depend on whether he thinks state's rights are at stake.

Wheeler has his own plan to help under-dog workers. The present wage and hour bill he thinks oversteps federal authority. Wheeler is 55, possessor of pioneer Massachusetts blood, but a political record that earned him the adjective "radical" from big business after the World War.

Harry Flood Byrd

This Virginia brother of Commander Byrd of Antarctica, is a political preacher whose text is "Cut government expenses." He rode the economy theme to power as governor of Virginia, and continues to pound it out in the senate.

Byrd wants to streamline federal administrative organization, but he also wants to save many dollars every step of the way. The Roosevelt scheme stresses efficiency, scouts the idea that you can trim big money off government services.

That means Byrd will tangle with the administration on governmental reorganization every step of the way, even though he is a Democrat.

Alben W. Barkley

Of all the New Dealer heavy men, the public eye will fall offener on this sturdy son of Kentucky—the senate Majority Leader. He's the man who stepped into the late Joe T. Robinson's shoes last summer by the margin of one vote, after formidable opposition from the Democratic party's right wing.

Barkley is 60, keen on running debate, and possessor of an authentic log cabin background. He's a conservative, loyal New Dealer, whose standing as an orator twice took him to the mike to keynote national Democratic conventions.

He'll have to shoulder responsibility for administration bills in the never-predictable senate.

Nation's News In Brief

(Wyo.), an opponent of the President's Court bill, came the expression that "The Supreme Court issue is closed."

Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich.) said he doubted that the administration "would make the blunder" of seeking any new court reorganization plan.

Among Their Souvenirs.

Jersey City, N. J., Nov. 12 (AP)—A truck driver and commuter prized among their souvenirs today silver medals commemorating the tenth anniversary of the opening of the Holland Vehicular Tunnel under the Hudson river.

Morris Rosenberg, of the Bronx, N. Y., received a medal at the Jersey City entrance to the tunnel yesterday afternoon.

At the New York entrance, meanwhile, Charles A. Sollet of Maplewood arrived at 3 p. m. and received his souvenir.

2 Killed in Mine Blast.

Princeton, Ind., Nov. 13 (AP)—Two men were killed and one injured in an explosion at the King's Station coal mine near here. Approximately 35 other miners escaped to safety by crawling through an air shaft.

The explosion, which appeared to come from about two miles back in the mine, occurred shortly before midnight just as a shift was preparing to leave the mine.

Allee Pomerene Dead.

Cleveland, Nov. 13 (AP)—Allee Pomerene, former Democratic United States Senator from Ohio and several times mentioned for the presidency, is dead.

Suffering from an attack of broncho-pneumonia, the 73-year-old former Senator who assisted in the prosecution of the "Terror Dome" oil lease cases and who later became chairman of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, died at his home last night following an illness of several weeks.

Pomerene served two terms in the United States Senate, his first as a leader of that body under President Woodrow Wilson.

He gained recognition as a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1928.

Funeral services will be held here Monday and burial will be at Canton, O.

Shot by Negro.

Mt. Clemens, Mich., Nov. 13

(AP)—Miss Lillian Willig, bookkeeper at a local garage, who was shot Thursday by a negro painter, died in the hospital here today. There were seven bullet wounds in her body.

The young white woman was shot by William Hathaway, who then committed suicide.

11 Lie-Downers Held

New York, Nov. 13 (AP)—Eleven men were held today on charges of disorderly conduct after pickets staged the second "lie down strike" within three days before automatic restaurants of the Horn and Hardhat chain. Two girls who joined the demonstration yesterday were released.

Suggestions Four In

Washington, Nov. 13 (AP)—Suggestions for stimulating home construction came in increasing volume today from businessmen and scientists as well as from a corps of government officials headed by President Roosevelt himself.
